

HOME HAPPENINGS

—Back to school.

—It pays big all the time to play fair.

—September is furnishing a July article of weather.

—A stated communication of Argus Masonic lodge will be held this (Friday) evening.

—Writing when there is something to say is easy. When there is nothing doing it is different.

—This surely is that good old summer time that failed to arrive at the proper season. Long life to it.

—There will be good crops of native nuts. Fox squirrels are now working on hickory trees about town.

—A sneak-thief entered the cellar of P. T. Jones on North Broad street and carried away several cans of fruit.

—Jupiter Pluvius must be taking a vacation—no rain to speak of for a whole week. That comes near being the record in months.

—A drive through the country shows corn to be rapidly maturing. There are fields of ensilage corn that is from 12 to 15 feet high.

—The annual reunion of the 6th O. V. C. of which Dr. L. D. Coy and J. B. Hartman of Canfield were members, will be held in Warren Oct. 5.

—Last Sunday afternoon was ideal for automobile driving and almost as many machines were on Canfield roads as during the big fair last week when acres of automobiles were in evidence.

—Tuesday thermometers about town registered 90 in the shade and 108 in the sun. And there have been other days recently that brought just as much hot stuff.

—The next meeting of Dublin Grange will be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 21. Candidates who have not received the degrees at the place be present. A large attendance is desired.

—Peaches are so plentiful this fall that it is difficult to sell the choicest fruit at a dollar a bushel. Peaches that brought that price last year would not be looked at even with one eye now.

—Quite a number of Canfield people attended the Lisbon fair this week, going in automobiles, but they say there was nothing like the number of machines in evidence at the Lisbon that came to Canfield last week.

—Cider mills and apple-butter factories are kept busy these days. The apple crop is the largest in years and fallen unmarketable fruit finds its way quickly to cider mills to be converted into palatable products.

—On Monday Miss Mabel Paulin of Green township left at the Dispatch office four luscious peaches that weighed two pounds. None of the peaches exhibited at the fair last week had anything on those grown by Miss Paulin.

—Coy Brothers, who were awarded the contract to widen and rebuild the road from the Morris drug store corner to the north borough line, will begin work shortly and hurry it to completion. A large force of men will be employed on the job.

—Tampering with automobiles left standing on Canfield streets has become an annoying practice and the authorities are determined to break it up. Electric lamps and batteries appear to be the favorite pickings but other articles have been taken by the light-fingered genies.

—Little Robert Deifs, who was injured in an automobile accident August 19, still remains in an unconscious condition. Some days there are symptoms of improvement while on others he appears to be just alive. Everything possible is being done to restore him to health.

—Chicken thieves visited the Loveland farm southwest of the village last Saturday night but were discovered before securing the plunder sought and driven away. The two men jumped into a rubber-tired buggy and made off as fast as the horse could gallop. Shot-guns will be brought into action should they call again.

—The first installment of the list of premiums awarded at the Mahoning county fair held in Canfield last week is printed in today's Dispatch. It is an interesting story, especially to exhibitors who were fortunate enough to be counted in on the liberal cash premiums handed out by the society. The remainder of the list will appear in the next Dispatch.

—Repairs are now being made on what is known as the state road leading from the beach tree corner on Lynn street to the brick pavement near Cornersburg. Great holes were gouged out of the macadam in many places by the heavy traffic and stretches of several rods are being refaced. It is possible that the highway will be paved with brick next year.

—Robert Dodd, while suffering from dependency last Friday evening, tightly closed the door and windows of his room at the home of his son, C. S. Dodd, on South Broad street, and turned on the gas. Fortunately Mrs. Dodd discovered conditions and acting quickly saved the man from being asphyxiated. However, he suffered from the effects of the gas inhaled for several days.

—The work of grading the road a mile and a quarter east of the village, which is to be macadamized from the Mud school house to the Boardman township line, closing a gap that will give a more improved road all the way from Canfield to Youngstown by way of Boardman, is being vigorously prosecuted and contractor Kane hopes to have the job well along before winter sets in.

—Through an oversight no mention was made in the last Dispatch of the exhibit made at the fair by the State Experiment Station at Wooster. The exhibit was large and fine and excited the admiration of many visitors. It was in charge of Prof. F. M. Latta who was kept busy explaining the methods of growing various crops. County Agricultural Agent D. W. Galehouse spent much time in the tent giving valuable information. The exhibit afforded farmers and others an opportunity to learn many things that can be turned to good account. Mahoning county people are progressive and make no chance to acquire facts that help them in their work and at the same time prove profitable.

—G. C. and Harold Reed are having a large silo erected on their farm on the southern border of the village.

—Bogus check workers are said to have operated here last week during the fair, but to what extent is not known.

—C. H. Neff has purchased of John Welkart the property on Lisbon street occupied by Bert Hines and family and is arranging to greatly improve same.

—On Wednesday Judge W. P. Barnum made permanent the interlocutory divorce granted Mabel White Prentice from Homer Prentice. The parties lived in Canfield before going to Youngstown.

—Work was resumed Monday morning at the normal building with more than fifty pupils in the high school and ten in the county normal department. The attendance will be materially increased during the next two weeks.

—At the fair last week, presumably in main hall, Mrs. I. Callahan lost her handbag containing about $150 in money, glasses and pin to hold them and one or two other articles. A card within showed ownership of the bag. Mrs. Callahan would be glad to present the money lost for the return of the spectacles.

—The Canfield Union school reopened Monday morning after the long summer vacation, every room in the main building being crowded with pupils and the remodeled jail residence, now used for school purposes, houses more than forty scholars. If the attendance still further increases it may be necessary to provide additional room.

—No plans have yet been made for a lecture course in Canfield the coming season, which is contrary to the rule for many years. Last season's course was not a success financially, the first in a long time, but there may have been reasons for this. A lecture course, like the chautauqua, is a good thing for any community and the Dispatch believes plans for one should be made for the coming season, and without delay. A lecture course makes it possible for many people to attend first-class entertainments who cannot conveniently go elsewhere. It has been suggested, and the Dispatch makes the call for a meeting of citizens interested in a lecture course in town hall next Monday evening at 8:15. Not only the men, but the women, as well, are urged to attend.

—At Youngstown Wednesday Ensign Yager began attachment proceedings against Charles S. Dodd to recover $800 alleged to be due on an automobile sold to the defendant. Mr. Dodd for several years was engaged in the automobile business in Canfield and a few weeks ago leased quarters on Boardman street in Youngstown and engaged extensively in handling used cars. Last Friday he left Youngstown and has not yet returned. Mr. Dodd's home is on South Broad street in Canfield and it was his daily custom to drive back and forth to his business in Youngstown, going early and returning late. Mrs. Dodd, when accused Thursday by a Dispatch representative, said she did not know the whereabouts of her husband but expressed explicit confidence in him and expected his return or to hear from him very shortly. She is greatly depressed by his absence and is preparing to remove from the village.

CHURCH CHIMES

Services in Zion Reformed church, north of Canfield Sunday, Sept. 19, at 10:30 a. m., sun time. Preaching by J. M. Koning, supply pastor.

Methodist church—Sunday school at the usual hour. There will be no preaching morning or evening, as the pastor, Rev. J. V. Haskell, is attending Conference in Akron.

—Urie Baird of Ellsworth township and Mrs. Della van Loan of Benzie county, Mich., were united in marriage Thursday by Justice H. A. Manchester at his home on South Broad street. The happy couple left immediately after the ceremony for a trip to Cleveland, Toledo and other lake points.

Christian Church—Chas. E. Gels, minister. Regular morning and evening services at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., eastern time. Y. P. S. C. E. at 7 p. m. Subject: "World Ideals, and How Foreign Missions Will Promote Them." Leader, Mrs. Albert Hussaw. Sunday school at 10 a. m. A Bible School rally day will be observed in our school next Sunday for all members and friends of the school. We welcome all those who are not attending Sunday school to come to our bible school.

NOTICE TO TRANSFER PATRONS

Owing to the fact that the traffic regulations in Youngstown now prohibit me from parking my car in the Public Square, all persons desiring to reach the Canfield should be at Youngstown at the following times: Two bedroom suits, iron bed, small wooden bed, stands, chairs, sewing machine, book case, rug, carpets, mattresses, dining table, cook stove, 2 gas heaters, washing machine, work bench, lawn mower, garden tools, and many other articles.

MRS. ROY DICKSON.

Shadow Social

A Shadow Social will be held in the Tippecanoe schoolhouse, Saturday evening, Sept. 18, for the benefit of the literary society. The ladies are requested to bring a box filled with eatables for sale. Everybody is invited to have a share of the good time which will be a feature of the evening. Col. S. B. Parschal will auction the boxes.

Cider Making

The cider mill and apple butter factory located on A. Brubaker's farm, two miles east and one mile south of Greenford, is now being operated by C. O. Blosser. Tuesdays and Thursdays are special days. We solicit the public patronage. We have a large stock of crocks on hand. 25-2

A TANGLED WEB

Much fiction of the world today portrays an almost lifeless society. The husband or the wife. The lover or the sweetheart. Do secretly desire. A tangled web do weave. The ideal is a worldly one. A momentary conquest won. A victim saved or lost. The characters do vacillate. Along the human line. A sure destiny or fate. A doom or most sublime. The pleasures of today are rife in rosy colors grand. There is imaginary strife. Or peacefulness at hand. There's happiness in sorrow. That borders on the art. Of more or less tomorrow. To cheer or break the heart. It is so fascinating. To lose one's self in thought. Although you're gravitating. To phantoms that are sought. To temporal things that pass away like fancies in a dream. From things eternal as the day. Although they are sought. —S. J. Bush, Greenford.

NEW CITIZENS WHO KNOW.

The men of foreign birth who are being naturalized in the United States understand better than many of those who took the oath of allegiance in calmer and more ordinary times the full import of their choice. They know what it means to renounce all obligations to other states and rulers and cast their lot wholly with the American republic.

It is impossible now to take this step in the dark. Recent events have made too plain what the future may bring to the men who elect to become Americans in the eye of the law and trust their fortunes to a power which had no claim upon their allegiance until they decided to turn their backs upon Europe and cast their lot upon new world opportunities and new world privileges. They understand how grave the responsibilities are which these advantages may entail. Surely the crop of citizens harvested in war times ought to be especially sound and valuable. It is being garnered under circumstances which winnow out the thoughtless and the insincere to an extent never before known save in the days when the nation was itself in the throes of a terrible struggle for existence.—Cleveland Leader.

A LITTLE BIT MORE SUMMER

A little bit more summer—Oh, yes, a little more! That golden spell of beauty ere the memory be o'er! A little bit more summer—Just to help us keep the song When the wind blows and the white And the winter night are long! A little bit more summer—though the sun may spring and burn! A little bit more summer—ere the leaves to crimson turn! A little bit more summer—In this life that knows so well The storm and the shadow And the things that have to tell! A little bit more summer—just a day or two of grace. With that sweetness of the violet in the sunshine of her face. A little bit more summer, Ere she turns through yonder door. With her dreams to be remembered While she smiles on us no more! A little bit more summer—we can stand From her eyes of burning beauty as we join her in the dance! A little bit more summer—Just to kiss and light the stream Where our hearts will hold her ever In the sunshine of a dream! —Baltimore Sun.

QUITS BUSINESS

Pioneer House, the Well-Hartzell Co., Announces its Withdrawal From Commercial World.

The Well-Hartzell Co., of South Hazel street, Youngstown, has announced its retirement from business and will at once offer all its large stock for sale. The fixtures will also be disposed of.

M. J. Brown, for many years the manager, has accepted the agency of the Dalton Adding Machine Co., with six counties, including Mahoning to look after.

The Well-Hartzell Co. has been in existence for many years and is a reliable house carrying an extensive line of wall papers, linoleums, oil cloth, rugs, carpets, stationery, school supplies, toys and sporting goods.

BILLION A YEAR FOR AUTOS

Sixty years ago when John G. Saxo was one of our most popular humorists, one of his hits was some verses called "Where the Money Goes." Today a poem of that kind would fall flat. The answer is too simple. If the money is in dollars, it goes for motor cars, and if it is in nickels, it is gathered in by the "movies."

There is more chance for speculation and interest in asking where the money to maintain the two prosperous luxuries comes from. A good guesser has lately figured out that we spend $1,000,000,000 a year on motoring. Whatever we do spend, whether $1,000,000,000 or two or three, goes into the coffers of the car makers, the tire makers, the producers of gasoline and lubricating oils, the making of motoring togs, the wages of chauffeurs and the like.—Brooklyn Eagle.

MEN SEEKING BIG LOAN THREATENED

Members of the Anglo-French Financial Commission Receive Menacing Notes.

HAVE DOUBLED THEIR BODY GUARDS

Negotiations for Raising Billion Dollars Among United States Bankers Proceed Rapidly Despite the Pro-German Opposition.

New York, Sept. 16.—Members of the Anglo-French financial commission, here to obtain a $1,000,000,000 loan, have doubled their body guards as a result of threats. The campaign against the flotation of the loan in the United States to Great Britain and France appears to assume the proportions of a country-wide movement, threatening even the personal safety of the six members of the Anglo-French commission.

Commission Takes Precautions. Members of this commission, of which Lord Reading, lord chief justice of England, is chairman, have been requested by the police of New York not to announce in advance their plans for any day and in no instance appear on the streets without detectives guarding them.

More than 50 threatening letters have been received by the commission. Their contents run the scale from abuse to threats against the lives of the commission. Some of the most threatening of these letters have been turned over to the police for investigation. It is said, and New York city detectives are now reported to be engaged in seeking the writers.

Largely upon advice of the police, the commissioners do not visit the financial section in a body or even in couples.

Loan Negotiations Proceed. America's billion-dollar loan to Great Britain and France seems to be well on the way to actual accomplishment, according to bankers familiar with the pledges secured by members of the Anglo-French financial commission during their six-day stay in this country.

Announcement at this time that the success of the loan was assured would be, these bankers thought, decidedly premature, but there is every indication, in their opinion, the commission's work thus far had met with a degree of success that had fully equalled their expectations.

This rosy view did not coincide with the sentiments of those opposing the big loan, nor of the so-called pro-German financiers here, who have not been invited to attend the commission's conference or meet the commissioners. So far as could be learned from bankers in touch with the commission and its work, the situation is about as follows:

Pledges have already been obtained for a considerable fraction of the big loan. Other pledges are in prospect. Secretary of State Lansing in Washington indicated that there is no reason why American bankers should not make the proposed credit loan of a billion dollars to the allies if they care to do so. Former Secretary Bryan held that a credit loan was not objectionable when the money was to be spent in this country, and Secretary Lansing said the department still holds to that policy. He denied that Germany had entered any protest, and added that if such a protest were received the department would inquire fully into the subject.

TEACH FARMING BY MAIL

OFFICIALS OF OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY OFFER 22 CORRESPONDENCE COURSES.

Columbus, Sept. 16.—It will be possible for one to study agriculture by mail hereafter. Officials of the college of agriculture, Ohio State university, announced the inauguration of 22 correspondence courses in farm subjects, to be started within a few weeks. Any course, arranged in separate lessons, can be taken without cost by Ohio residents. Most studies will occupy the greater part of the winter. After persons have had a chance to read each lesson, a written test will be given by mail, and then examination papers inspected and criticized by professors in the college of agriculture.

Ohio is said to be one of the first states to institute such a correspondence course as part of the state university curriculum. Special bulletins containing full information concerning the courses can be secured by addressing J. E. McClintock, Ohio State university, Columbus.

President W. O. Thompson of the university and other officials who planned the courses expected that a number of farmers who are anxious for scientific instruction but who cannot spare time to attend college would take the correspondence work. Teachers and persons contemplating starting small farms also may form a considerable proportion of the students.

Woman Finds Mother Dead.

Massillon, O., Sept. 16.—When Mrs. Allen Ginter arrived here from Newark to visit her mother, Mrs. Greenstein, 71, she found the body of her parent lying in a stairway of her house where she had fallen dead of apoplexy.

None Equal to Chamberlain's.

"I have tried most all of the cough cures and find that there is none that equal Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has never failed to give me prompt relief," writes W. V. Harner, Montpelier, Ind. GIVING AND GETTING

The teacher deems it good to live because she deems it life to give; And so she freely gives herself Aspiring not to fame or pelf.

She gives her time from morn till night, Transforming darkness into light; And, daily, in her busy mart She gives the treasures of her heart.

She gives a kindly, helping hand When poverty is in the land; She gives her words in accents mild To soothe the heartache of a child.

She gives her beauty and her youth, She gives her wealth of garnered truth, She gives her smiles, she gives her tears

And rarest gift, her priceless years. For these she gets a petty dole, And scorn that crucifies her soul; She gets the critic's proud disdain, An echo from Golgotha's plain.

But once she got a fragrant rose, A mother's gift, no angel knows The joy she felt, with hope imbued, To have one gift of gratitude.

—F. B. Pearson.

OUT IN THE FIELDS WITH GOD

The little cares that fretted me, I lost them yesterday Among the fields above the sea, Among the winds at play;

Among the lowing of the herds, The rustling of the trees, Among the singing of the birds, The humming of the bees.

The foolish fears of what might happen— I cast them all away Among the clover-scented grass, Among the new-mown hay;

Among the husking of the corn, Where drowsy poppies nod, Where ill thoughts die and good are born—

Out in the fields with God. —Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

What I Would Be.

I would be true for there are those who trust me; I would be pure, for there are those who care;

I would be strong, for there is much to suffer; I would be brave, for there is much to dare;

I would be friend to all, the foe, the friendless; I would be giving and forget the gift;

I would be humble for I know my weakness; I would look up, and laugh, and love, and lift.

A Smile

The thing that goes the farthest Toward making life worth while, That costs the least and does the most Is just a pleasant smile.
